Spirits and Mixed Drinks

The inspiration for our restaurant's drinking culture comes from the ceremonial act of enjoying aperitivi and then digestivi on either side of the meal. We believe in the benefits of this Italian ritual and encourage you to enhance your dining experience by taking part.

VIEUX CARRÉ 16

Sazerac 6 Yr. Rye Whiskey / Maison Surrenne Cognac / Carpano Antica Vermouth
Benedictine / Peychaud's Bitters / Angostura Bitters / Lemon Twist

Round and round and round we go, where we stop, we'll never know. But what we do know is we'll be drinking the Vieux Carré cocktail at The Carousel bar, looking out over the old square in 'Nawlins and feeling just a little bit like it's the 1930's. The aforementioned 'Old Square' is the location of the Hotel Monteleone as well as the name of the drink under discussion, created by barman Walter Bergeron in 1938. Before the bar turned you right round baby, it was a fixated watering hole and nightclub called The Swan Room, beckoning the likes of literary luminaries and big band stars. Seemingly inspired by the array of people visiting this famous part of town, Mr. Bergeron added a little of this and that; things relevant to the incoming influence of spirited flavors from far away lands. As it was then as it is today, the Vieux Carré takes you back to old New Orleans and makes one wish all carousel rides came with one in hand.

JACK ROSE 14

Laird's Apple Brandy / Père Magloire VS Calvados / Lemon Juice / Lime Juice
House Grenadine

The Laird family has been producing "applejack" for 12 generations. There are letters from George Washington to Robert Laird asking for his applejack recipe. When 17th century settlers began to establish themselves they turned to apples to create strong spirits because the weather and the soil was inhospitable to rye, barley and corn. Before whiskey began to flow through the Cumberland Gap and molasses arrived via the slave trade, applejack was America's spirit. Due to the increased availability of grain, clean water and metal stills, apple based distillates experienced a long decline in popularity. Thanks to the fastidious bartenders of the 21st century cocktail renaissance, domestic apple-based distillates have been making a come back. The Jack Rose cocktail is one of two pre-prohibition cocktails to feature applejack, and the first popular cocktail to feature citrus juice and no bitters.

PENICILLIN 14

Great King St. Scotch / Laphroaig 10 Year / Ginger / Honey / Lemon

After a few seasons in the early part of the newest century, a fondness for crafted cocktails and spirits imbued with place and purpose caught on along the coasts of our great, intoxicated nation. And with that new adoration came bartenders and their customers in an absolute frenzy to mix everything. Of the hundreds of thousands of new potions made by the hands of bar (wo)men overwhelmed by the demand of their patrons to CREATE!, the best of them all came from an Aussie boy in 2005 named Sam Ross. He created the Penicillin cocktail at Milk and Honey, formerly owned by cocktail wonder and dearly departed Sasha Petraske, who told Sam to keep it simple and work hard on perfecting with as few ingredients as possible. Well, how does Scotch, ginger and honey, some lemon juice and a little more Scotch for good measure sound?
